

#306 The Image of the Beast – The “World Peace through Democracy” Birth of the ‘Image of the Beast’ United Nations at St. James Palace on June 12, 1941, part 1

Key Understanding: The United Nations became the Image of the Beast. The United Nations was founded by the major victors of World War II as the successor to the League of Nations. From its earliest stages, the United Nations had “World Peace through Democracy” as its doctrine and spirit, which was identical to the doctrine and spirit of the Beast, and identical to the doctrine and spirit of the earliest steps toward the birth of the ‘Image of the Beast’ League of Nations.

The very first step in founding what became the United Nations in 1945 occurred on June 12, 1941, in London (right) at St. James Palace (below). Winston Churchill was Prime Minister of Great Britain. Here is how it is described in World Book Encyclopedia, © 1990.

June 12, 1941: Prime Minister Winston Churchill (1874 - 1965) addresses the conference of Allied and Imperial Statesmen at St. James Palace

Early in World War II, the representatives of nine European governments fled to London. Nazi Germany had conquered much of Europe and had driven these leaders from their homelands. Representatives of Great Britain and the Commonwealth of nations met in London with leaders of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, France, Greece, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, and Yugoslavia. On June 12, 1941, all these nations signed a declaration pledging to work for a free world, where people could live in peace and security. This pledge, usually called the Inter-Allied Declaration, was the first step toward building the U.N.

This fits, of course, with the points of such recent Unsealings as #297, #299, #300, and #302.
