

#394 The Deadly Wound of the Beast, Phase II – Ho Chi Minh’s Death on September 2-3, 1969

National Day in Vietnam. World War II officially ended on September 2, 1945. Japan’s official surrender aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo Bay spurred Ho Chi Minh to declare Vietnam’s independence the same day. September 2 is still today celebrated annually as National Day in Vietnam.

Ho’s Death. The significance of September 2 as the most important national patriotic holiday in Vietnam led to unusual events surrounding Ho Chi Minh’s death. It was reported when Ho Chi Minh died that he passed away at 9:47 a.m. on September 3, 1969, after a very serious heart attack, at the age of 79. Years later, Vietnamese leaders asserted that the date of death of Ho Chi Minh had been falsified by the party leadership at the time of his death, stating that he actually died on September 2, 1969. The reason given for supposedly altering Ho Chi Minh’s date of death from September 2, 1969, to September 3, 1969, was “to prevent the date of Uncle Ho’s death from coinciding with a day of great national rejoicing.”

However, in Vietnam today, National Day is celebrated on September 2 and Ho Chi Minh’s Death Anniversary continues to be celebrated on September 3. [Ho Chi Minh’s birthday is also celebrated as a public holiday on May 19.]

Summary: ‘He who enlightens’ was said to have died on September 3, 1969, though the date of his death is now most often said to have been September 2, 1969. The Vietnamese still celebrate Ho Chi Minh’s death anniversary as an official national holiday on September 3.

Key Understanding:
Whatever the true story behind the death of Ho Chi Minh, the Lord ordained that the date of September 3, 1969, be connected to the death of ‘he who enlightens’ Ho Chi Minh, because it was 186 “her double” years after the September 3, 1783, Treaty of Paris, which officially marked the victory of the United States (and its Enlightenment Declaration of Independence) over Great Britain. We will expand upon this in the next Unsealing.

Revelation 18:6 (KJV) Reward her [Babylon the Great] even as she rewarded you, and DOUBLE UNTO HER DOUBLE according to her works: in the cup which she hath filled fill to HER DOUBLE.

Up to this time, “double her double” was most extensively addressed in Unsealings [#69–#80, with the central focus being Napoleon’s ending of the Holy Roman Empire on August 6, 1806. The double of the American Revolution and French Revolution was a part of the picture.]
