

#396 The Deadly Wound of the Beast, Phase II – The September 3, 1783, Wound to Great Britain, and the September 2, 1945, Wound to Japan

Matthew 5:14 (KJV) YE ARE THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

We have drawn parallels between the ‘Enlightenment’ Declarations of Independence of the United States on July 4, 1776, and “he who enlightens” Ho Chi Minh’s Vietnam on September 2, 1945. What started with the Enlightenment’s U.S. Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, ended in victory on September 3, 1783. However . . .

Key Understanding: The ‘enlightenment’ victories. The Enlightenment victories for the United States on September 3, 1783, and for Ho Chi Minh’s Vietnam on September 2, 1945, represented corresponding defeats of Great Britain and Japan, respectively.

September 3, 1783, represented a wound to Great Britain.

September 2, 1945, represented a deadly wound to Japan (and a healing of America’s deadly husband-head wound at Pearl Harbor).

What we are going to be concentrating on in the near term is the September 3, 1783, wound to Great Britain, because it has an impact on the understanding of our overall subject of The Deadly Wound of the Beast, Phase II, which is referring especially to the Vietnam War.
