

#743 Constantine the Great and Woodrow Wilson, II

We are departing from The Phony War and the Forgotten War and returning to Constantine the Great and Woodrow Wilson, which was first covered in Unsealings #661–#662:

Unsealing #661 Constantine the Great and Woodrow Wilson – Representing the beginning and the end of the Christian Autocratic Eastern Roman Empire, respectively

Unsealing #662 Constantine the Great and Woodrow Wilson – Making War with the Saints

This series will be a continuation of those two Unsealings and is titled Constantine the Great and Woodrow Wilson, II.

The reason why we left off from Constantine the Great and Woodrow Wilson was to introduce and elaborate upon the theme of Making War with the Saints. The series since then have been:

- The Churchill Saints of Daniel 7:21
- Dunkirk
- The Defeat of the Spanish Armada
- The Gates of Hellevoetsluis
- The Double Eight (88) Kingdoms of England and America
- The Phony War and the Forgotten War

To reintroduce the subject matter, let's revisit certain portions of Unsealing #662:

Constantine the Great. The figure of Constantine the Great represents a beginning of the great and unusual devastation of the Christian Church that has continued to the present day. We can call it 'making war with the Saints.' This is a start to laying the foundation for understanding Constantine's role as a major part of the fulfillment of the antichrist figure of Revelation 6:2.

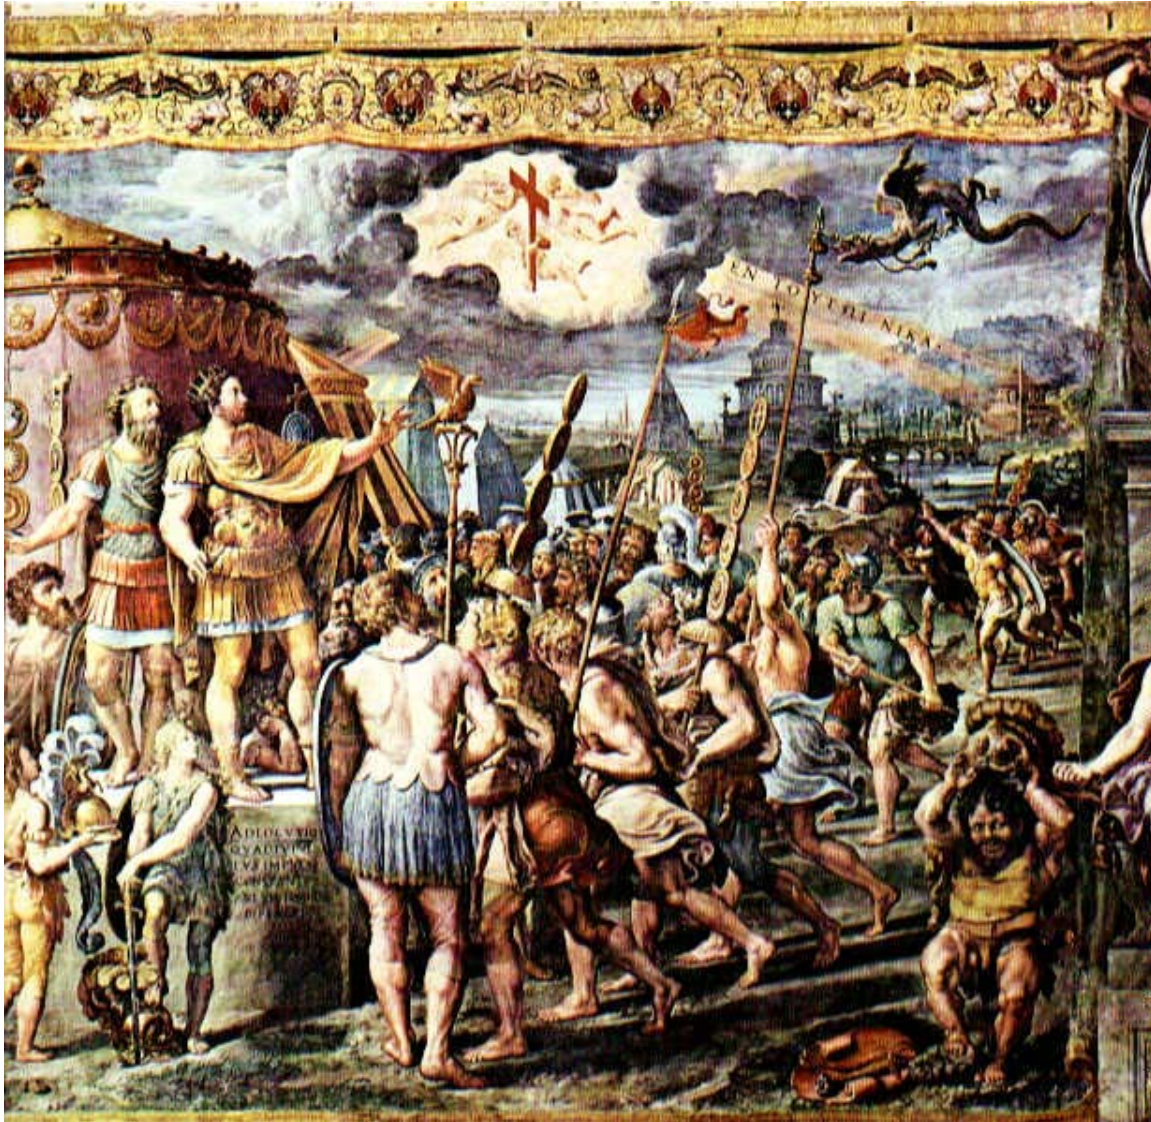

Constantine (on a white horse no less) at the Battle of Milvian Bridge by Raphael

Revelation 6:2 (KJV) And I saw, and behold A WHITE HORSE: and HE THAT SAT ON HIM HAD A BOW; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

Key Understanding: The two types of warring antichrists. It can be said that there were/are two types of warring Antichrists over the better part of the previous two millennia. There are those who made/make war against the saints. And there are those who made/make war with the saints.

Making war with the saints. Constantine the Great rose to power shortly after the reign of Diocletian. Warring in the name of the sign of the cross [see Unsealings #42 and #42–Doc 1], he was the chief historical and prophetic prototype of an antichrist who makes war with the saints.
