

#1617 The Yom Kippur War and the Abomination of Desolation – The series of 4’s (fours) leading up to and surrounding the latter day(s) fulfillment of Daniel 8:9 through Harry Truman and the Atomic Bomb, part 1a, The Four Freedoms

Genesis 4:3-5 (KJV) And in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD.

4 AND ABEL, HE ALSO BROUGHT OF THE FIRSTLINGS OF HIS FLOCK AND OF THE FAT THEREOF. AND THE LORD HAD RESPECT UNTO ABEL AND TO HIS OFFERING:

5 But unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect. And Cain was very wroth, and his countenance fell.

Key Understanding: The Four Freedoms. Franklin D. Roosevelt’s January 6, 1941, State of the Union message (Annual Message to Congress) defined his conceptions of America’s role in the conflict of World War II and of the fundamental purpose of American democracy. The fundamental purpose of American democracy would be defined through the “Four Freedoms.”

The Four Freedoms. January 1941 saw Europe at war and divided between German and Russian spheres of influence. Britain was the only power still holding out against the Nazi onslaught. Japan was engaged in its ruthless war in China and had begun to occupy French Indochina. The United States had managed thus far to stay out of the conflict, though it was sending ever increasing supplies to Britain. Roosevelt, newly elected to an unprecedented third term as president, was steering a fine course between the country’s desire to stay out of war and his own realization that the security of the nation depended upon its preparedness for the contingency of going to war.

In his address (the Annual Message to Congress), FDR outlined the tasks that had to be carried out in order to prevent the Axis nations from achieving victory and defined the positive goals such a policy would ultimately achieve. A fascist victory would bring not peace but danger to America. The ultimate defeat of the aggressor nations, Roosevelt stressed, would constitute a victory for the democratic principles underlying the American political system. FDR used the speech to clarify his conception of those principles. They were the Four Freedoms – freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want, and freedom from fear.

Daniel 8:9 (KJV) And OUT OF ONE OF THEM [the second Syria, the United States] CAME FORTH A LITTLE HORN, which waxed EXCEEDING GREAT, toward THE SOUTH, and toward THE EAST, and toward THE PLEASANT LAND

[Harry Truman, through the double events of the dropping of the Pu-239 August 9, 1945, atomic bomb and the May 14-15, 1948, U.S.-recognized birth of Israel].
