

#1726 The Yom Kippur War and the Abomination of Desolation – The pre-World War II U.S. waxing great toward the South and toward the East as a second Syria/Antiochus IV Epiphanes, part 19, Toward the South: The Monroe Doctrine, (iii), The pledge to avoid involvement in the Greek struggle for independence against the Ottoman Empire

The Monroe Doctrine and Greek independence from the Ottoman Empire. The Greek struggle for independence from the Ottoman Empire began in 1821 and continued to unfold through the time of the issuance of the Monroe Doctrine in 1823 and during most of the decade of the 1820's. In 1827, the European powers of France, Great Britain, and Russia would intervene with force to aid the Greeks toward the gaining of their independence in 1830.

◀ The 1820's

'Freedom or death' was the Greek cry during their war for independence from the Ottoman Empire during the 1820's. When the Monroe Doctrine (pictured above) was proclaimed, the Greek struggle for independence was one of the circumstances surrounding the pledge by the United States not to interfere in European affairs if the European powers did not interfere in Western Hemisphere affairs. In other words, the United States pledged not to interfere on behalf of the Greeks.

Here is #1726–Doc 1, which is what the U.S. State Department says about the Monroe Doctrine. The Greek struggle for independence against the Ottomans that was unfolding simultaneously is mentioned.

Key Understanding: The Monroe Doctrine and Greek independence from the Ottoman Empire. The Lord ordained the Monroe Doctrine's role in the U.S. waxing great toward the south in fulfillment of Daniel 8:9 to involve the circumstance of the Greek struggle for independence against the Ottoman Empire, because of Greece's prominent historical role (beginning with Alexander the Great) in the fulfillment of Daniel 8:8-9. While the U.S.'s role would be limited concerning Greek independence at that point in time, the United States would later wax great toward the east to keep Greece independent after World War II, as will be discussed.

Daniel 8:9 (KJV) And OUT OF ONE OF THEM [the second Syria, the United States, located in the northwest part of the world] CAME FORTH A LITTLE HORN, which waxed EXCEEDING GREAT, toward THE SOUTH [for American independence (from which came the Northwest Territory with its slave-prohibiting Northwest Ordinance) triggered the independence of Spanish colonies from Spain toward the south], and toward THE EAST, and toward THE PLEASANT LAND.
