

#1987 The Yom Kippur War and the Abomination of Desolation – The post-World War II U.S. waxing great toward the South and toward the East as a second Syria/Antiochus IV Epiphanes, part 246, The House of Orange, (xxiv), At the time when the United States was officially arising out of the Pit through the September 3, 1783, ‘Oswald’ Treaty of Paris that ended the Revolutionary War, its Congress was meeting at Princeton in Nassau Hall, both of which were named after the Prince of Orange-Nassau, William III

For several months in 1783, Princeton, New Jersey, was the capital of the United States of America and Princeton University’s Nassau Hall hosted the American government.

It was at Princeton’s Nassau Hall that Congress:

- (i) congratulated George Washington on his successful termination of the war,
- (ii) received the news of the signing of the definitive treaty of peace – the September 3, 1783, Treaty of Paris – with Great Britain, and
- (iii) welcomed the first foreign minister – from the Netherlands – accredited to the United States.

Nassau Hall, named after William III, Prince of Orange-Nassau

Key Understanding: Congress was meeting in Princeton at the time of the official end of the Revolutionary War. At the time when the United States was officially arising out of the Pit through the September 3, 1783, ‘Oswald’ Treaty of Paris that ended the Revolutionary War, its Congress (under the Articles of Confederation) was meeting at Princeton in Nassau Hall, both of which were named after the Prince of Orange-Nassau, William III.

Those spiritual roots were not from God, but were from the spiritual abyss, the spiritual pit, the spiritual netherworld. America's ascension as the 8th Kingdom included the initial phase of Protestant England 'rising' out of the Netherlands, represented through the defeat of the Spanish Armada in '88 (1588) and the successful invasion of the Dutch Armada in '88 (1688), and then included, during the Revolutionary War, the important American victory at Princeton, named after William III, Prince of Orange, and included as well America's Congress meeting in Nassau Hall at Princeton at the time when the Revolutionary War officially ended with the 'Oswald' Treaty of Paris on September 3, 1783, and receiving notification there that the treaty had been signed, giving final recognition to the nation's independence from Great Britain], and go into perdition: and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder, whose names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world, when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.
