

#2132 The Yom Kippur War and the Abomination of Desolation – The post-World War II U.S. waxing great toward the South and toward the East as a second Syria/Antiochus IV Epiphanes, part 391, The History of the Pale of Settlement, (xviii), Warsaw, the capital of Poland, was a part of the Pale of Settlement

Warsaw. Due to its central location between the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth’s capitals of Kraków and Vilnius, Warsaw became the capital of the Commonwealth and at the same time of the Polish Crown in 1596, when King Sigismund III Vasa moved the court from Kraków.

Warsaw remained the capital of the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth until 1795, when it was annexed by the Kingdom of Prussia to become the capital of the province of South Prussia. Liberated by Napoleon’s army in 1807, Warsaw was made the capital of the newly created Duchy of Warsaw.

Following the Congress of Vienna of 1815, Warsaw became the centre of Congress Poland, a constitutional monarchy under a personal union with Imperial Russia.

Following the repeated violations of the Polish constitution by the Russians, the 1830 November uprising broke out.

However, the Polish-Russian war of 1831 ended in the uprising’s defeat and in the curtailment of the Kingdom’s autonomy.

Warsaw became the capital of the newly independent Poland in 1918. In the course of the Polish-Bolshevik War of 1920, the huge Battle of Warsaw was fought on the Eastern outskirts of the city in which the capital was successfully defended and the Red Army defeated.

Praga was a small settlement located on the east bank of the Vistula River.

The Nazi occupation of Warsaw. During the Second World War central Poland, including Warsaw, came under the rule of the General Government, a Nazi colonial administration.

All higher education institutions were immediately closed and Warsaw’s entire Jewish population – several hundred thousand, some 30% of the city – was herded into the Warsaw Ghetto. When the order came to annihilate the Ghetto as part of Hitler’s “final solution,” Jewish fighters launched the Warsaw Ghetto uprising. Despite being heavily outgunned and outnumbered, the Ghetto held out for almost a month. When the fighting ended, almost all survivors were massacred. Only a few managed to escape or hide.

Key Understanding: Warsaw became a part of the Pale. The very heart of Poland, including its capital city of Warsaw, became a part of the expanded Pale of Settlement after Russia gained control over Congress Poland through the decisions made at the Congress of Vienna in 1815.

Revelation 6:8 (KJV)
And I looked, and behold
A PALE HORSE: and his name that sat on him was DEATH, AND HELL followed with him.
And power was given unto them over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death,
and with the beasts of the earth.
