Review: Between 1585 and 1672, Amsterdam, Netherlands, was the richest city of Europe and the center of a worldwide trading network. Merchant ships sailed from Amsterdam to North America, Africa, Indonesia, and Brazil. Amsterdam became the most important port for the shipping of goods in Europe and was also the leading financial center of the world. This was the Golden Age for Amsterdam.

The stock exchange. The stock exchange of the city was the first to trade continuously. The population of Amsterdam grew from about 10,000 inhabitants around the year 1500 to nearly 200,000 people in 1700.

It was during the time of the third war between England and the Netherlands that the Golden Age for Amsterdam ended. The Netherlands and England fought three naval wars between 1652 and 1674 – the First Anglo-Dutch War (1652-1654), the Second Anglo-Dutch War (1665-1667), and the Third Anglo-Dutch War (1672-1674). In 1664, English warships sailed into what is now New York Harbor and forced Dutch governor Peter Stuyvesant to surrender New Amsterdam. This resulted in the Second Anglo-Dutch War (1665-1667). The Dutch regained the colony on August 9, 1673, but then ceded it to England under the terms of the Treaty of Westminster of 1674 after the Third Anglo-Dutch War (1672-1674). It was during the Third Anglo-Dutch War (which was a part of the larger Franco-Dutch War), when the Dutch Republic was attacked by England and France, that the Golden Age of Amsterdam ended. The stock market in Amsterdam plummeted. The year 1672 is known in Dutch history books as the “Year of Disasters.” In 1672, France and England declared war on the Dutch Republic. The English strangled Dutch shipping; Louis XIV invaded by land. Amsterdam panicked. The shares of the Dutch East India Company as well as government stock plummeted. The Dutch Republic was saved, but the Golden Age was over.

New Amsterdam of the Dutch permanently becomes New York City of the English. As a result of the Third Anglo-Dutch War, the Dutch city of New Amsterdam permanently became New York City of the English.

Key Understanding: The plummeting of the Old Amsterdam stock market in 1672. The actual plummeting of the Old Amsterdam stock market in 1672 was a part of the prophetic story of Wall Street attached to New Amsterdam/New York City that led up to the Wall Street Crash of October 24-29, 1929, and that is a part of the fulfillment of Daniel 9:25, “the street shall be built again, and the wall, even in troublous times,” which is connected with “the prince that shall come” in Daniel 9:26 and Daniel’s 70th week in Daniel 9:27.

Daniel 9:24-25 (KJV) SEVENTY WEEKS [of years] are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city, to finish the transgression, and to make an end of sins, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and prophecy, and to anoint the most Holy.

25 Know therefore and understand, that from THE GOING FORTH OF THE COMMANDMENT TO RESTORE AND TO BUILD JERUSALEM unto THE MESSIAH THE PRINCE shall be SEVEN WEEKS, and THREESCORE AND TWO WEEKS [69 weeks]: the STREET shall be built again, and the WALL, even in troublous times.
