Bush was prophetically and historically connected to the 6th President, John Quincy Adams, and the 2nd term of George W. Bush was prophetically connected to the 7th President, Andrew Jackson

Key Understanding: Bush and John Quincy Adams; Bush and Andrew Jackson. The 1st term of George W. Bush was prophetically and historically connected to the 6th President, John Quincy Adams, and the 2nd term of George W. Bush was prophetically connected to the 7th President, Andrew Jackson.

George W. Bush as a second John Quincy Adams in Election 2000. George W. Bush was considered a second John Quincy Adams for two reasons, (a) because the Bushes became the second father-son combination to become presidents, with the first being the Adamses, and (b) because the election of George W. Bush carried enormous similarities to the election of John Quincy Adams over Andrew Jackson, who received more of the popular vote in 1824, just as Al Gore received more of the popular vote than George W. Bush. The overall reason why this occurred is because Election 2000 took place at the turn of the sixth to the seventh millennium since the creation of Adam. George W. Bush was linked to Andrew Jackson in both Election 2000 and Election 2004. Bush was linked to Jackson in Election 2000 because of the understanding that Jackson was the 7th President, and Election 2000 represented the start of the 7th millennium. Bush was linked to Jackson in Election 2004 because of the 86,806 days from the March 15, 1767, birth of Jackson to the Tuesday, November 2, 2004, election of Bush to his 2nd term as President.

Job 11:12 (KJV) For vain man would be wise, THOUGH MAN BE BORN [with a natural birthright to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness] LIKE A WILD ASS'S [Jack's] COLT [son].
